A series of activities to engage clinical, policy, research and public/advocacy stakeholders in becoming aware of and helping to shape how research results are communicated to these audiences. Major activities to date include:

- Key Stakeholder Workshops – 3 workshops held in Toronto, Ottawa and London in October 2006 with 80+ stakeholders from across Ontario.
- Follow-up interviews with a stratified random sample of workshop attendees in January & February 2007.
- Development and launch (March 2007) of the Violence Against Women (VAW) Online Community of Interest (www.VAWCommunity.ca) a wiki-based site to foster discussion regarding the VAW Research Program results, and related issues.
- December 2008 policy working group to identify key messages with representatives of several Ontario Ministries with VAW portfolios.
- January 2009 – Inter-ministerial Briefing (Ontario) and Family Violence Knowledge Exchange Forum with 100+ key stakeholders from across Canada.

- All activities include multiple data collection techniques to assess uptake of research findings, effectiveness of knowledge exchange strategies and follow-up to assess impact of knowledge on decision-making in the different sectors (clinical, policy, etc.)
